

Authentication of Documents

The Secretary of State's office is responsible for providing authentication on public documents that are to be used abroad. The purpose of authentication is to verify for foreign governments that a public official is in good standing.

These officials include Notary Publics, State, District, County Officials and Registrars of the Arkansas Health Department, Bureau of Vital Statistics.

There are two types of authentication. The receiving country determines whether an Apostille or Certification is needed. If you are uncertain which type of authentication you need, you should contact the Consulate of the receiving country or the US Department of State's Authentication Office at the Internet address below:

www.state.gov
